sas 11.1M3 portable sas 11.2M2 sas 12.0 The most current version of sas is 12.4. A: There is no portable version of SAS 9.2 that's currently available on a regular basis, so you'll need to work with the version of SAS on the platform you are currently using (which, in this case, is SAS 9.2 on the Linux box). If you're comfortable with shell scripting, you might look into using the sas macros. Don't Ask HN: What is your favorite source of caffeine - keepanalive Ask HN: what is your favorite source of caffeine?I'm not going to get into the hundreds of other variants of caffeine, so the purpose of this post is to define the best source of caffeine for myself. I know that there are lots of people who like their coffee very strong or in a particular way. Personally, I prefer to have coffee with a smaller amount of caffeine, so I like the coffee that I get at home brewed coffee places. However, the problem is that these places, for the most part, do not have an espresso machine, and it's not as easy to take one of the espresso shots and add that to my coffee. So, my question is: What is your favorite coffee? What places do you drink it at? Do they have an espresso machine? ===== Gravityloss Caffeine is typically added to drinks at an amount to get a small buzz. Caffeine in coffee is at a bit higher level. It is easy to get a weak buzz with just a teaspoon of coffee, but you'd need to drink 3 or 4 cups to feel effected. I usually drink coffee with a bit of sugar and milk. I usually drink it at a coffee shop, and I get a hazelnut flavored latte or cappuccino. I think it's the best coffee in the world, but it's very hard to get and take with me. ---- mwfunk I'm curious how your coffee (as well as most people's) tastes when compared against coffee shops in the Bay Area. I find it in many places, but I know many others that couldn't stand it. It's a 82157476af
